"Unlike many reformers, Miss Brooks knew how to appeal. In this instance 'the people' were mostly Poles. Miss Brooks began by learning their language. She then addressed them at public meetings with such effect that she completely won her impulsive, warm-hearted auditors. Not only was the incorporation project signally defeated, but Miss Brooks had so sturdy an army of Polish voters behind her that she felt strong enough to urge more active reforms,

"Fighting an organized ring is not an easy task, and Miss Brooks had many discouragements; but in the end the decent citizens were thoroughly awakened. A reform bicket was put into the field and won an overwhelming victory, and the last dive in West Hammond, called in derision 'The Virginia Brooks' closed its doors."

J. W. Gatlin Sr. Passes Away.

J. W. Gatlin, Sr., age sixtysix years, one mouth and twenty seven days, died at his country home, two miles from Madisonville, on the Princeton road, last Friday at 10;30 a. m., after an illness of several months, death being due to a complication of diseases. His condition had been serious for the past week, and his death had been hourly expected by those at his bedside.

Mr. Gatlin was one of the best and most favorably known citizens of the county. He was born in this county, and with the exception of a few years spent in Caldwell county, lived in Hopkins county all his life, and enjoyed a wide acquaintance and the confidence and esteem of all who knew him.

Mrs. Tilden-"It's the dearest thing asked, looking up. I ever saw. You certainly have the best taste in dress, Mrs. Snowdon. Every time I see Mrs. Snowdon, Mrs. them pictures to send to Thompkins, I say to myself: 'If I colks?"—Popular Magazine.

Mrs. Snowdon-"How nice you two are! Of course, I know you're just saying it to make me happy, but then it's just as dear of you as if you meant it. Now, I think you two are the trimmest two women I know."

Mrs. Snowdon-"Pretty, wasn't it? I do just love Wagner. And while I think of it, Mrs. Tilden, I want to ask you where you got that perfect dream of a fichu you had on yesterday at the tea. I'm crazy about it!"

Mrs. Tilden-"Oh, do you really like it? How sweet of you to say so! I got the lace in Paris and I had my little seamstress make it when I got home. I think it's rather fetching."

Mrs. Thompkins-"It's the dearest thing! Oh, they're going to play again. I wish they'd wait a little longer between the numbers."

(The first violinist plays a solo.) Mrs. Thompkins-"Isn't that violinist the dearest thing you ever saw? I simply adore him."

Mrs. Snowdon-"Yes, he's perfectly sweet, but he has the funniest looking wife. Did you ever see her?"

Mrs. Tilden-"I should think I did. I have very good reasons to remember her. I saw her at the tea Mrs. Dupont gave for her, and one of the maids spilled punch all over my best gown. It was never fit to wear afterward."

(Chorus of lamentations from the other two.)

Mrs. Tilden-"And such a dowdy thing as she is, too. Really, her gown was nothing but the plainest kind of silk. It looked as if she had bought it ready made. Really, the most ordinary looking thing.'

Mrs. Snowdon-"Funny, isn't it, how queer these artistic people are about their clothes? The only one I ever knew who wasn't was the wife of that artist who visited Mrs. Tolman last winter. Do you remember what perfect dreams her gowns were?"

Mrs. Tompkins (with intense interest)-"Weren't they! I never saw anything more beautiful than the one she had at the reception Mrs. Tolman gave for her."

(The orchestra rudely interrupts them.)

Mrs. Tilden-"Isn't that young flutist absolutely the most attractive creature you ever saw? Now, do tell me about the gown you were speaking of, Mrs, Thompkins. You know, I was ill last winter and didn't go to the re-

Mrs. Tilden-"I almost cried when I heard about it. I was the most disappointed person you ever saw. And usually Mrs. Tolman's affairs are so dowdy. By the way, there's Mrs. Parks down there. Speaking of dowdy people made me think of her. She has less idea of dressing than an other woman I ever knew. Actually she went to Mrs. Tuttle's garden party last Thursday in a perfectly plain finen frock. Not even a suit, my dear-just a little linen dress, with some sprays of embroidery on the front panel. Can you imagine any one doing such an unheard of thing? I'm sure Mrs. Tuttle felt it very keenly."

Mrs. Snowdon-"Poor Mrs. Tuttle! By the way, I suppose you're both going to the Trenton's Friday evening?" The Other Two-"Yes, indeed!"

Mrs. Tilden-"I wouldn't miss it for worlds. What are you going to

Mrs. Snowdon-"Oh, I'm having Mrs. Deming freshen up my white voile with some new laces-just cheap little lace, only $3.50 a yard, but I've worn the gown three times already and I didn't feel like putting much money into fixing it up."

Mrs. Thompkins-"I'm having a little gray chiffon made, and I really think it's going to be a very dainty little frock. Simple, of course, and inexpensive. I've made up my mind that I simply won't spend more than $50 on it. But then I adore simplicity. I simply will not fuss over my Major Atkinson, according to his wife's testimony, doesn't know how to say no to Adelaide, his niece. This assertion is borne out by the fact that when Adelaide asked him to appear in juvenile costume at what she called a "kid party," which she was to give at his summer home, he consented with an outward smile and an inward groan.

"I wish," he said to his wife in private, "that Adelaide hadn't insisted upon my taking part in this ridiculous affair of hers. In fact, I don't see why she wants to give such = nonsensical party."

"Why do you ald and abet her?" demanded his wife. "When I suggested that she think of something newer and more dignified, you immediately said, 'Let her have any kind of party ilm pleases."

"Viell, one doesn't like to be always nterfering with her pleasures. There's o particular harm in her having a field's party, is there? But I know I shall feel like a perfect idiot dressed in the !ittle girl's early Victorian costume that Adelaide has picked out for ne." He give sed into the mirror and sighed as he stroked his graying Vandyke beard.

The afternoon of the party Adelaide, after tying the strings of a quaint little sunbonnet under the mafor's beard, drew away and surveyed him from the top of the sunbonnet to the tips of his white stockinged and black slippered feet.

"Uncle, you're certainly the most excruciatingly funny sight I ever beheld," she declared. "I'm so glad I found those pantalettes in grandma's old trunk. They're perfectly killing. You'll make the hit of the evening."

"I suppose I'm what you'd call a screaming success," said the major, somewhat wryly. "You don't think I'm too complete, do you?"

"No, you're just-just lovely," Adelaide squeezed the large sun browned hand of her uncle, half of which was neatly incased in a white lace mitt. But with that eigar in your mouth ou're & sight to behold."

"Well, I must have a little smoke efore your guests come, Adelaide. I'll just take my magazine and read and smoke on the lawn until the festivities begin."

A little later, as Mrs. Atkinson and Adelaide were putting the finishing touches on their own costumes, they saw a striking looking couple alight from a motor car and approach the major, who rose with his accustomed courtliness and greeted them.

"Good gracious, Adelaide! Your. uncle appears to be absolutely unconclous of his absurd attire," exclaimed Mrs. Atkinson. "He is taking those people around the garden as in a business suit. They must think he is crazy! Here, I'll slip on a long coat over my short skat and run out and explain." The major welcomed his wife with smile. "I'm glad you joined us, my dear, for I wish you to meet Professor and Mrs. Lee of the university, who have heard flattering reports of our garden and have come way out from the city to see our rare roses. We are honored, I'm sure."

"I think," said Mrs. Atkinson to the visitors, after acknowledging the introduction, "that you are seeing something else quite as rare as our roses." She laughed and locked at her husband.

"By Jove, I'd forgotten this foot rig," exclaimed the major, with some temper. "I wonder what you can have thought of me."

"Well," laughed Professor Lee, "the friends who told us about your roses said that some of your neighbors considered you rather eccentric to devote so much of your time to flowers. When we introduced ourselves I thought you were perhaps a trifle unusual in your dress."

"Unusual! I should think so," exclaimed the major. Then, turning severely to his wife, he said: "I can't see, my dear, why you ever permitted Adelaide to ge up such an idiotic party. I fear you give that girl her head too much." He glanced down at his costume again. "This is really preposterous. Is that you calling, Adelaide? Yes, we'll be there at once. You see, Mrs. Lee, the party is beginning and I've promised my niece to be in the grand march. You'll join us, wan't you?"-Chicago Daily News.

Pat Funny Stories. Authors are not above having a pet story to be told over and over again on occasion-and off, too. Emerson Hough, who in his novels deals with extremely serious topics, has a keen sense of humor and never tires of telling about a guide he once had on a fishing trip in the Adirondacks. This guide had also been employed by Grever Cleveland and Dr. Henry van Dyke of Princeton university. Shortly after the birth of President Cleveland's little daughter the chief executive went on a fishing trip and was delighted to learn that his guide had also become a father.

"How much did your baby weigh at birth?" asked Mr. Cleveland. "Twenty-two pounds, sir," answered

"Twenty-two pounds!" exclaimed the president, in amazement; "wby, my baby weighed but seven."

and Confidently Recommend Doan's Kidney Pills

It is testimony like the following that has placed Doan's Kidney Pills so far above competitors. When people right here at home raise their voice in praise there is no room left for doubt. Kead the public statement of an Earlington citizen:

Perry McCully, Earlington, Ky., says: "You are at liberty to continue using my endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills as heretofore. Whenever I have had occasion to use them I have been benefited. I feel that I am doing nothing more thau my duty in publicly recommending this preparation. Doan's Kidney Pills restored my kidneys to their normal condition, regulated the kidney action and removed the pains in my back, in fact improved my health. I obtained this remedy at the St. Bernard Mining Co., Incorporated, and have certainly been r.leased with the results of 'ts use."

The record is have had access to those foods he would have been able to "put forth his hand and eat and live forever." In disfayor with God it has been a blessing that man could not do this, for he was created to live in harmony with his Creator and could not be truly happy under any other conditions.

These wondertul food discoveries, together with modern irrigation works, remind us of the prophesy of Joel 2;21, 52, "Fear not, O land, be glad and rejoice, for the Lord will do great things. Be not afraid, ye beasts of the field, for the pastures of the wilderness do spring, for the tree beareth her fruit, the fig tree and

The hotel was being occupied by the families of Forest Ramsey and J. D. Hawkins for the winter and both of these sustained quite a loss to their household goods.

It contained fifty-three furnished rooms, very little of the second story furnishings being saved. The building was owned by J. B. Ramsey, C. H. Ramsey, and J. R. Ramsey. It was valued at between $12,000 and $15, 000. Insurance totaling $11,500 was carried. Only Friday $5,600 policy was taken out.

Speculation was rife here tonight as to whether the hotel would be rebuilt, many fearing that Sebree Springs would pass into oblivion as a summer resort, while others were confident that a larger and finer building would be erected.

Morgan's Particular Fad. Among the many collections of art objects J. Pierpont Morgan has made in this country and in Europe is one of exactly 999 miniatures that are in his London house in Prince's Gate. The little pictures are not bung on screens in the usual manner, but are kept in a cabinet whose tray-like shelves are lined with black velvet, each miniature being securely fastened to the bottom of the tray. A New Yorker going through the Morgan house while on a recent visit to London asked the guide who was showing him over the house why Mr. Morgan didn't buy another miniature and make the collection an even thousand. "Oh, that is one of his particular pets, that odd number," was the reply.

Write Ideas for Moving Picture Plays

YOU can write photo plays and earn $25. or more weekly.

WE WILL SHOW YOU HOW!

If you have ideas-- if you can THINK---we will show you the secrets of this fascinating new profession. Positively no experience or literary excellence necessary. No "flowery language" is wanted.

The demand for photoplays is practically unlimited. The big film manufacturers are "moving Heaven and Earth" in their attempt to get enough good plots to supply the ever increasing demand. They are offering $100. and more, for single scenarios, or written ideas.

Nearly all the big film companies, the buyers of photoplays, are located in or near NEW YORK CITY. Being right on the spot, and knowing at all times just what sort of plots are wanted by the producers, our SALES DEPARTMENT has a tremendous advantage over agencies situated in distant cities.

We have received many letters from the big film manufacturers, such as VITAGRAPH, EDISON. ESSANAY, LUBIN, SOLAX, IMP, REX, RELIANCE, CHAMPION, COMET, MELIES, ETC., urging us to send photoplays to them. We want more writers and we'll gladly teach you the secrets of success.

We are selling photoplays written by people who "never before wrote a line for publication."

Perhaps we can do the same for you. If you can think of only one good idea every week, and write it out as directed by us, and it sells for only $25, a low figure.

You Will Earn $100. Monthly For Spare Time

FREE Send your name and address at once for free copy of our illustrated book, "MOVING PICTURE PLAYWRITING"

Don't hesitate. Don't argue. Write now and learn just what this new profession may mean for you and your future.

THE RED-HEADED BOY'S BIG BOWFIRE

ished hanging out a perfectly good was making the examination, when wash on perilous lines run on pulleys; his eagle eye detected the absence of from the back porch of her flat so the soapsin the kit of Private Flinn, and telephone pole in the alley, no right he demanded what excuse the man micded person could blame her for had to give. losing her temper if a red-headed boy with a wide mouth and the ingenuity Flina. of a fiend should start a smudgy fronare directly below.

Simms' grocery, one of the stores that occupied the ground floor of the flat in the ranks yet. How do you acbuilding. He was poking the fire as | count for that?" though he enjoyed it when Miss Clancy saw him.

"Say, you, Tommy Herkimer!" Miss Clancy called threateningly. "See what you're doing to my wash!"

Tommy grinned up at her and gave Tit-Bits. the fire another stirring. Great clouds of smoke and black smudges wavered upward, seeking the chaste whiteness of the Clancy linen.

"Step it!" Miss Clancy shricked, shaking one fist in the offender's direction. The fist was small and white, for it was Miss Clancy's mother who had washed the clothes, her pretty daughter's share in the work being the hanging out process. Mrs. Clancy was proud of Sadie's hands just as she as proud of Sadie's crisply curling black hair and blue eyes and the general freshness of her. "Stop it, I say! You're horrid, and if you don't stop

"Yah-h-h!" yelled Tommy, derisive-"I afrit afraid of you, Sadie Clan-You can't do nothin'!"

Sadie Clancy shot down the one flight of stairs like an angry comet and catapulted toward Tommy. Dropping the broom handle with which he was stirring the fire, Tommy bolted, with Sadie after him. He darted to ward the back door of the grocery and swerved just as that door filled with the bulk of young Simms himself. Young Simms being Sadie's devoted worshiper, Tommy recognized that here was no safe haven. Indeed, after a breathless word from Sadie, Simms also joined the chase down the alley. As he rushed past one of the delivery wagons he caught his foot in the trailing lines and pitched headlong in the dust.

"Pickles and prunes!" young Simms exploded as he staggered up.

"Oh, did you hurt yourself?" Sadie cried, looking around in horror. Right in her course was the water hydraut and, hitting it, she, too, ornamented the alley pavement.

"Don't you know anything worse than that?" she gasped out furiously as Simms picked her up, roaring. "Coffee cakes and buns! Let me get my hands on him!"

Tommy, who had paused interestedly to view the unexpected gymnastics, was doubled up in mirth. He began to run again when his furious pursvers darted toward him. Spying an open door into the basement under Leigh's furniture store, he dashed in nd his pursuers followed. Sadle was in the lead. Rounding some crates of dressers, she saw a human object shrunk up close to the last crate. She grabbed it with a shriek of triumph, to which the object responded with a howl. Young Simms, arriving, also grabbed. "Gotchu!" the object yelled in terri-ble glee. "Y'will play tag in my basement and carve initials all over the mahogany, will yer? I'll teach you kids a lesson! I've been a-layin for yeh and now I've got yeh!"

Leigh, the furniture man, as he spoke was shaking Sadie and young Simms, occasionally knocking their heads together for emphasis. Suddenly the size of Simms seemed to confuse him and he jerked his captives into the light of a gas jet.

"Good land!" Leigh gurgled, releasing his hold. He stared at his neighbors whom he had been shaking.

"Why-why-" stammered Leigh, and sat down meekly. Then he gave a sort of groan and scrambled to his feet. He had sat down in a bucket of

"Oh-h-h-h!" Sadie wept hysterically, clinging to young Simms. He put his arm around her protectingly and jammed it against a nail point that was projecting through one of the uprights in the wall.

"Woo-o-of!" roared Simms, clasping his wound.

Somewhere in the distance of the basement there was a strangled but demoniac laugh that sounded as though emanating from a red-headed boy with a wide mouth.

"Let him go," said young Simms as he put his arm around Sadie again. "Somehow I don't seem to mind him now-do you, Sadie?"

"Let's help Mr. Leigh get that varnish off him," said Sadie with very pink cheeks. She did not move away from the arm. "Anyhow, ma's taken the clothes in by now!"—Chicago Daily News.
